With reference to Executive Council Resolution No. 106 of October 27, 1945, the Academic Board considered the opinions of the Faculties of Science (Resolution No. 14 of December 10, 1945), Commerce (Resolution 11 of December 10, 1945) and Agriculture (Resolution No. 9 of December 8, 1945) on the following proposal of Dr. R. K. Singh:—

In Chapter XVI, in Regulation 5, appearing on page 130 of the University Calendar, delete "with the exception of the Boards of Botany, Zoology, Military Science, Commerce, Teaching, Agriculture and Medicine, no Board shall contain more than one representative from any one college" and add "no Board shall contain more than one representative from any one college except in the case of the Boards of Botany, Zoology, Military Science, Teaching, Agriculture and Medicine, provided that there shall not be more than four representatives from any one college in any Board except in the Boards of Teaching and Medicine" after the word "and."

Resolved that it be recommended to the Executive Council that Regulation 6 of Chapter XVI be amended so as to read as follows:—

"Each Board shall contain at least one person who is not a teacher in an affiliated college and no affiliated college shall have more than one representative in any of the Boards of Studies, excepting the Board which deals with a subject or subjects in which the number of colleges affiliated or recognised is less than five."

42. With reference to Executive Council Resolution No. 51 of August 21, 1945, the Academic Board considered the opinions of the various Faculties on G. O. No. A/1900/XV-677-1944 dated July 7, 1945, from the Secretary to Government, U. P., Education Department, saying that it is proposed to move the Board of High School and Intermediate Education, U. P., to grant certificates of having passed its Intermediate Examination to such of the second year (Intermediate) students of these provinces, as leave their studies for the purpose of joining war services, and enquiring whether the University would have any objection to recognising such certificates for purposes of admission to the 1st Year class of the B.A., B.Sc., B.Com. or any other degree course at the University for which the Inter. certificate of the Board is required.

NOTE.—The opinions of the various Faculties are as follows:—

- (1) The Faculty of Arts resolved that in its opinion the University could have no objection in recognising such certificates given by the Board (Resolution No. 23 of December 10, 1945.)
- (2) The Faculty of Science did not approve of the proposal (Resolution No. 13 of December 10, 1945).
- (3) The Faculty of Commerce approved of the proposal (Resolution No. 10 of December 10, 1945).
- (4) The Faculty of Agriculture did not approve of the proposal (Resolution No. 8 of December 8, 1945).
- (5) The Faculty of Medicine did not approve of the proposal (Resolution No. 8 of December 8, 1945).

Resolved that the proposal be not approved.

43. With reference to Executive Council Resolution No. 50 of August 21, 1945, the Academic Board considered the following resolutions passed by the Inter. University Board, India in December 1944:—

Resolution No. X.

Resolved that the Memorandum from the University of Ceylon be brought to the attention of the Universities of India and that they be asked to facilitate the migration of students between India and Ceylon.

Resolution No. XXIII (4).

(4) Resolved that the Universities be requested to consider the desirability of including Astronomical Navigation and Meteorology in their curricula.

Resolution No. XXVIII.

Resolved that it be recommended to the Universities and the Boards of High School and Intermediate Education that the Pre-Engineering Examination of Delhi Polytechnic be recognised as equivalent to Intermediate Science Examination of Indian Universities.

Resolved that—

- (i) the Memorandum from the University of Ceylon be forwarded to the affiliated colleges;
- (ii) Resolution No. XXIII (4) of the Inter. University Board be referred to the Board of Studies in Physics; and
- (iii) No action need be taken on Resolution No. XXVIII of the Inter. University Board as the matter has already been dealt with under Resolution No. 40 above.

44. With reference to Academic Board Resolution No. 15 of March 9, 1945, the Academic Board considered the views of the colleges Teaching Law on the following recommendations made by a Committee of the Faculty of Law and approved by the Faculty:—

- (1) The Committee recommends that every college affiliated in law should have at least three law teachers on the staff on a permanent basis; and should have at least four teachers, if the number of students in the Law department exceeds eighty.

Provided that there is at least one teacher for each section besides such additional staff as may be necessary for the efficient carrying on of the tutorial work.

- (2) The Committee feels that it will be in the interest of legal education in affiliated colleges that the salaries of teachers of law be increased commensurate with the income from the law department so as to attract and retain competent men on the staff, as the Committee is of opinion that the salaries of such teachers in affiliated colleges are generally low and in some cases very inadequate.
- (3) With a view to facilitating the specialisation and improvement in the teaching of law, the committee suggests that it may be recommended to the affiliated colleges to encourage the system of engaging part-time lecturers on the annual honorarium basis for delivering lectures on subjects included in the LL B. course. The engagement of such lecturers will be included in the computation of regular lecturers on the staff in the proportion that two honorary lecturers will count as one lecturer on the regular staff.
- (4) Each class shall be divided into groups of not more than 10 students for tutorial work. Each group shall have tutorial work for at least two periods a week.
- (5) There should be written work in each subject, at least three times in a year for at least one hour on each occasion.
- (6) There should be held at least two moot courts in a year.

In this connection the Registrar also read a note from the Convener, Board of Studies in Law, laying stress on the desirability of enforcing the above recommendations of the Committee at an early date.

Resolved that the recommendations of the Committee be not accepted.

45. The Academic Board referred to the Board of Studies in Urdu the suggestion of the Convener of the Board of Studies in Urdu that as recommended by the examiner for B. A., Urdu Paper I of 1945, translation into English be excluded from Papers I and II of Urdu for the B. A. Examination of the University.

APPENDIX C

(Ref. Executive Council Res. No. 198 of Mar. 9, 1946).

The Vice-Chancellor.

Reference is invited to the following Resolution No. 150 passed by the Executive Council on November 23, 1945:—

Dr. N. P. Asthana moved—

"That in view of the great cultural value of Sanskrit, Arabic and Persian, it is highly desirable, that a Faculty of Oriental Learning be constituted in the Agra University and enquiries be made from the authorities of the oriental colleges situated within the jurisdiction of the University, particularly in the states of Rajputana, Central India and Gwalior to find out as to how many of such institutions are likely to seek affiliation to the University."

Resolved that the proposal of Dr. Asthana be accepted and enquiries be made in this connection from the authorities of the various oriental colleges lying within the territorial jurisdiction of the University, as also from the affiliated colleges, with a view to finding out as to how many of such institutions are likely to seek affiliation, if an Oriental Faculty is constituted in the University."

Besides the Benares Hindu University and the University of Lucknow, (which only award diplomas in Sanskrit and Persian and Arabic), the examinations in Sanskrit are conducted in U. P. by the Government Sanskrit College, Benares. The Department of Public Instruction U. P. alone conducts the diploma examination in Persian and Arabic, the Muslim University, Aligarh, awarding only diplomas in Theology. All the three Universities, viz. Benares, Lucknow and Aligarh are residential and therefore their examinations, at any rate the examinations corresponding to the degree and post graduate standard are confined only to the students of the respective Universities. But a very large number of Sanskrit colleges and schools, both in U. P. and C. I. and Rajputana, are at present affiliated to the Government Sanskrit College, Benares for purposes of examinations, and the Maktabas in U. P. prepare students mostly for the Departmental Examinations in Persian and Arabic.

As desired by the Executive Council, I made enquiries in this connection from the affiliated colleges of the University, some 52 important States in C. I. and Rajputana, through their Education Ministers, the Principal of the Government Sanskrit College, Benares and the Inspector of Arabic Madras, U. P. The last named officer has not cared to reply, but the Principal, Government Sanskrit College has promised full co-operation and help in the matter. Among the affiliated colleges of the University the Sanatan Dharma College alone may develop an oriental side, if facilities are provided by the University. The other colleges have either not replied or have expressed their inability to join for the scheme.

The response from the States in Rajputana and Central India is, however, most encouraging and I am appending to this note a list of the States together with the names of the oriental institutions which each State has got. Some of them have unreservedly promised to seek affiliation, while others have expressed their desire provided the scheme which University might lay down is found suitable for their requirements.

I am yet awaiting replies from Bhopal, Bikaner, Jaipur and Kotah.

On the whole I feel that the University could with the available material constitute a Faculty of Oriental Learning and a Committee consisting of University men and representations of Sanskrit and Persian and Arabic, may be appointed to formulate the scheme.

This note may be circulated to the Executive Council for this information.

SHYAM SUNDAR SHARMA,
Registrar.

- (b) Six research scholarships of Rs. 50 p. m. each tenable for 7 months during the year 1946-47, commencing from August 1, 1946 and ending with February 1947, be awarded to candidates to be selected by the Executive Council, the scholarships to be paid for 12 months in all.

6 The Committee confirmed Vice-Chancellor's order dated 11th December 1945, sanctioning two extra clerical posts each on Rs. 45 p.m. plus the usual dearness allowance till the end of April 1946, to cope with the increased work in the office.

7. The committee considered letter dated January 28, 1946, from the Principal, D. A. V. College, Cawnpore, suggesting that in view of abnormal increase in the number of examinees at all centres, the present scale of office expenses allowed to the clerical and menial staff of the Colleges be revised so as to provide also for the payment of Rs. 100 where the number of candidates examined is 500 and Rs. 10 for every additional 100 candidates in excess of 500 candidates.

Resolved that it be recommended to the Executive Council that the present scale of office expenses allowed to the clerical and menial staff of the colleges under footnote printed on page 222 of the calendar for 1945-46, be revised by adding the following at the end in line 6 of the footnote:—

“Rs. 100 when the number of candidates examined is 500 and Rs. 10 for every additional 100 candidates in excess of 500 candidates.

8. Read representation dated 22 January, 1946, from Mr. K. C. Goyal, Accountant in the University Office, requesting that, in view of the fact that his work is in no way less taxing or less responsible than that of the Senior Assistant, (i) his present grade (135-5-165) be placed at par with that of the Senior Assistant (135-5-200) and (ii) the annual increment of Rs. 5 be raised to Rs. 7½ as 135-5-155-7½-200 for both the grades of the Senior Assistant and the Accountant.

Resolved that the grades of the Senior Assistant and the Accountant be placed at par. This change will in no way effect the seniority of the present Senior Assistant.

9. The committee considered the note from the Registrar for increasing the staff of the University Office [Vide Appendix ii].

Resolved that in view of the increase in work in the University Office it be recommended to the Executive Council that the following additional staff be sanctioned :—

Resolved that it be recommended to the Executive Council that daily allowance for attending one day's meeting at Agra be allowed for the number of days as given in Appendix (iii)

APPENDIX (II)

(Ref. Finance Committee Res. No. 9 of Mar. 8, 1946).

The Vice-Chancellor.

You have been kind enough to sanction at my request two additional temporary hands for the Examination Department until March 31, 1946, on account of increased work in that Department; but although, with this addition, I may be able to meet the immediate need some how for a month or two, it is really impossible to carry on work in the office now, without substantially increasing the staff in all the Departments of work.

2. We made certain additions to the staff in 1939-40 but since then the staff has been stationary. Work, however, has increased during the last 5 years by more than 50% in all directions, and what has been worse still, the top men have almost all left the office for better posts elsewhere during the period of the war. The result has been that work at present hinges on a few old hands who are trying their utmost to cope with it. But they are much too overworked and are thus losing their health. We observe in fact no holidays these days and most of us have to put in work also at home, outside office hours. And so far as efficiency goes, I must not hesitate to say that there is not much left of it now. I do not suppose, I need bother you with more details.

3. I was not putting up proposals so far, because even if money could be made available, it was so very difficult to get the right type of men. Now that the war is over, I am looking forward to better times, when we should be able to get at least some good men and therefore the matter has to be taken up seriously. Finance must not stand in the way. The total income of the University in 1939-40 was Rs. 1,79,082; in 1944-45 it was 2,75,451. I expect an increase of very nearly Rs. 39,000 during the present year and a further increase of nearly Rs. 50,000/- in 1946-47. The office is the heart of the University and some portion of the increased income must legitimately be spent on the staff.

4. I am herewith submitting for your perusal four statements which I have prepared for your information and the information of the Finance Committee and the Executive Council, which will deal with the matter in due course.

(a) Statement No. 1, shows the present staff, which was provided in 1939-40.

(b) Statement No. 2 embodies the reasons for the increase in staff. The figures themselves are so obvious that I think it is unnecessary for me to make further comments on them in this note. You will please notice that work has increased by more than 50% in all direction and so has the income of the University. We propose to have more Faculties and more Colleges in the near future and some of the existing colleges are fast developing, so that work will increase still further in the office and while making additions to the staff we have to keep prominently in view this factor also.

(c) Statement 3 shows the staff as it is distributed in the departments at present along with the proposed additions to each department.

- (i) Beginning with examinations first, it will be noticed that the Head of the department is away and a person on Rs. 45/- p. m. has been added at the bottom. The arrangement is obviously unsatisfactory and cannot be continued for any indefinite period, because a man on Rs. 45/- cannot be expected to fill up the gap of a man getting Rs. 160/-; further it means also more work for the assistant and one cannot expect efficiency in such arrangements. But I am leaving aside this question of the Head for the time being, although I feel that it cannot be delayed too long. Any way I propose the addition of three new men to the staff in this department, two of whom must be graduates and one may be an undergraduate. I have learnt from experience that ordinary matriculates are not much good for our work and it is specially true for the Examination Department. We used to get graduates on 45-5-65 in 1939-4, but it is impossible to do so now and we must offer a better salary for efficient service. I have, therefore, proposed two graduates on 65-5-85 and one undergraduate on 45-5-65.
- (ii) Coming to the Accounts Department, we shall see from the figures that the Accountant's work and his responsibility have greatly increased. He has now to handle over three lacs of rupees as compared to less than two lacs in 1939-40. The Accounts work is in no way less taxing or less responsible than that of the Examinations Department; in fact the two are at par to my mind. The present Accountant has discharged his duties with very great devotion and the audit reports, which have been uniformly good all these years, and the surprise inspection report of the Examiner. Local Funds Accounts bear ample testimony to the efficiency of his work. He has been trying to maintain this efficiency at the cost of his health, and twice during the course of this year he has fallen sick for pretty long periods. He must be therefore, given a competent assistant forthwith and I propose that a new post in the grade 85-5-130 be created for this purpose. Any thing less than that is not likely to get us a competent person, who might, at times (when the Accountant is away on leave), be able to take the place of the Accountant and carry on the work. This new man will be designated Assistant Accountant and will have to furnish proper security for handling money.
- (iii) The General Department is a hotch potch. On one side we have the Library, then again all the typing and printing of the Examination and Accounts Department are done in the General Department. The Records and Despatch are also common. If we were to provide clerks for all this work to three departments separately, the scheme would become very more costly and probably we may have to provide a separate building also.
- (iv) In the beginning the Library was a side show and a part time man was all that we needed. It is not so now and Mr. Deen (who is incharge of the Library) is not able to do any other work. This takes away at once a top man from the General Section. We shall have to appoint very soon a separate staff for the Library but so long as this is not done, I cannot count on any assistance from Mr. Deen in the General Department. If he is taken on the Library staff, as I suppose he would be, I shall require for the General Department a top man in the grade 85-5-130; but I am leaving that also aside for the present, although it must mean very heavy work for the Office Superintendent in the General department particularly on the Meetings side.

- (v) But graduate clerk in the grade 65-5-85 has to be immediately provided for the work of the Board of Inspection. With the increase in the number of Colleges it is now impossible for a part time man to cope with this work and very great difficulty is felt at times by the Assistant Registrar and also by myself in arranging this work.
- (vi) Correspondence work and along with that work in the typing and records section has also increased by more than 100% and therefore at least two more men in the lower grade 45-5-65 are needed to cope with the demand.
- (vii) We have at present a post in the Records and Despatch Section in the grade 30-1-35. This is really the salary which we are allowing to some of the peons and it was possible to find a clerk on that pay before the war. But this is impossible now. Therefore I propose that this post should also carry 45-5-65.

5. Statement No. 4 gives a summary of proposals and their financial implication.

In all, there will be 7 new posts, 1 in the grade 85-5-130 (for the Accounts Section) 3 in the grade 65-5-85 (two for the examination Section and one for Board of Inspection work in the General Section and 3 in the grade 45-5-65 (two for typing, records and despatch work in the General Section and one for the Examination Section). The expenditure on the conversion of an existing post in the grade 30-1-35 into a higher grade (45-5-65) will be in addition to the new posts.

6. With the addition of the above mentioned ministerial staff, I have proposed two additional literate peons also on Rs. 20/- each.

7. The initial expenditure on the additional staff comes to Rs. 5,640 and the ultimate expenditure to Rs. 7,797, plus 12% provident fund and also dearness allowance, which of course is not a permanent feature.

University income during the last 5 years has gone up by nearly 1,25,000/- and the additional expenditure, I have proposed is really nothing in comparison to the increase in income and in our work in the office.

8. In order to secure efficiency in work, I also propose that the posts in the grades 85-5-130 and 65-5-85 may be reserved for graduates only and the posts in the grade 45-5-65 may be left open to undergraduates as well.

9. I request that, should you approve of it, this note may be submitted to the Finance Committee and the Executive Council for their consideration at the meetings in March, 1946.

and privileges as the other colleges affiliated to this University.

There is also another very important consideration. Since I became Vice-Chancellor I have pleaded with the powers that be, that if this University is to carry out the functions of a real University, it must become a real University, it must have professors, it must have a good library and it must also have the facilities for research and for advancing knowledge, which constitute the functions of a real University. By this amendment of the Act so long as the colleges of Rajputana, Central India and Gwalior remain with us, we shall be receiving a much enhanced contribution towards the maintenance of this University. It is no use giving you details, you will see them yourselves later on if you wish to do so. It is our hope that so long as the University is intact our income from grants will be doubled and in fact more than doubled. I very much hope that if this scheme materialises and leads to our income being doubled it should not be used for the purpose of our current expenses, be they the expenses of the office staff or the expenses in connection with the meetings of the University. Of course while the numbers expand a certain additional expenditure will have to be incurred. But I hope that you, gentlemen, as members of the Senate will bear it in mind that this additional income should be used for the development of the University in the matter of foundations of professorships and in the direction of building up a good library and of carrying on research work in this University. I trust our additional funds will not merely be used for adding to the current expenditure of the University office or of additional expenditure by way of travelling allowances to members and so forth. This is an ideal which I wish to place before you.

Having said this we shall proceed with the business. But before we proceed with the day's business I have to refer with very great regret to the sudden passing away of a member of this Senate and also of the Executive Council, who was for many years connected with the University -- I refer to the late Mr. Vishnu Swarup of the D.A.V. of School. I am sure that you will show your respect to his memory and your appreciation of his work for the University by passing a resolution of condolence with the bereaved family and by standing up in your seats in the usual manner.

The following resolution was unanimously passed, all the members standing:—

“That the Senate of the Agra University place on record their sense of deep regret at the sad and untimely death of Mr. Vishnu Swarup, a member of the Senate and the Executive Council, and express their sympathy with the relations of the deceased.”

43. The Minutes of the meeting of the Senate, held on November 22, 1945, were confirmed.

44. Under Section 17(2) (iv) of the Act (as now amended), the following five Principals of affiliated Colleges in Rajputana, Central India and Gwalior were unanimously elected to serve on the Executive Council:—

Mr. P. P. Shahani, Principal, Jaswant College, Jodhpur;

Mr. M. N. Tolani, Principal, Dungar College, Bikaner;

Mr. K. L. Verma, Principal, Maharaja's College, Jaipur ;

Dr. A. P. Mathur, Principal, Darbar College, Rewa;

Dr. Mrs. G. D. Mathur, Principal, Kamala Raja girls College, Gwalior.

45. Under Section 17 (2) (vi) of the Act the Senate unanimously elected Mr. Bans Kishore Mehra to serve on the Executive Council, in place of and for the residue of the term of the late Mr. Vishnu Swarup.

46. Under First Statute 7 (1) (c), Mr. B. K. Chaturvedi Secretary, Home Department, Gwalior, was unanimously elected to the Faculty of Commerce in place of and for the residue of the term of the late Mr. Vishnu Swarup.

47. Under Section 3 (1) (e) of the U. P. Intermediate Education Act, 1921, and the explanation appended thereto, the Senate unanimously elected Mr. K. P. Bhatnagar, Dr. A. P. Mathur and Mr. Badri Prasad Mathur

VICE-CHANCELLOR: Members of the Senate, I am very glad to welcome you here for this special meeting and I hope you will not find the heat too trying. It might not be conducive to the flow of eloquence and consequently we might be able to go through our business more expeditiously.

In some ways this is a memorable occasion in the history of this University. I myself have always felt that so long as the colleges in Rajputana, Central India and Gwalior were with us they should have the same status in the matter of elections to the various University bodies and at the same time, as representation carries with it taxation, they should also contribute their quota towards the maintenance of the University so that the entire financial burden should not fall on the United Provinces. I, therefore, feel happy that by the amendment of the University Act that unhappy position has been remedied and now the colleges of Rajputana, Central India and Gwalior have exactly the same facilities, rights to serve on the Board of High School and Intermediate Education, U. P. with effect from November 6, 1946

48. The Senate then considered the question of Post-war Educational Reconstruction with particular reference to the institution of three years' degree course in the Agra University.

Mr. K. P. Bhatnagar: May I know what are the proposals of post-war educational reconstruction?

Vice-Chancellor: I would like to point out that at the end of the last Senate meeting a requisition was received by me asking me that this question should be discussed by the Senate. I advised the gentlemen who sent this requisition to postpone it for a while, because in the first instance the proposals were not clear so far as the degree course were concerned and, secondly, because I felt that just to call a meeting to discuss it would be incurring expenditure not quite justified in the circumstances. Those gentlemen who sent this requisition, very kindly agreed to accept my advice. I gave them the assurance that I would afford them an opportunity for discussion as soon as possible. I knew that this meeting would have to be held a little later as soon as the Act was amended. I would rather leave it to those gentlemen who were then anxious to discuss the matter to have their say.

Dr. Ishwari Prasad: Before the house proceeds to discuss this important matter I like to say a few words. The item on the agenda says: .

"To consider the question of Post-war Educational Reconstruction with particular reference to the institution of three years' degree course in the Agra University."

We do not know from what authority this suggestion about educational reconstruction has come. What are the proposals that constitute this educational reconstruction and how does the question of the institution of the three years' degree course arise in this University and if there has been a report from Government or from any other recognised or duly constituted body, what are their reasons for this proposal? You may probably be in the know as to the genesis or the origin of this educational reconstruction after the war. What are the actual proposals that we are to consider? We have no report before us of any body. Probably the reference is to Sargent's scheme of post-war educational development in India. Beyond this report what is exactly that we are going to discuss this afternoon?

Vice-Chancellor : I may draw your attention to page 77 of the minutes of the last meeting of the Senate. Mr. P.D. Gupta asked: Will it be in order if I move that the Senate recommends to Government that the three years' degree course will not be brought into operation until the University has had an opportunity to discuss this question? I am only suggesting that the University may have an opportunity of expressing its opinion now.

Dr.P.Basu: may I request you to call upon Mr.P.D., Gupta to open the discussion?

Dr. Ishwari Prasad: Has the Government sent you anything about these proposals?

Vice-Chancellor: The question of post-war educational reconstruction has been engaging the attention of the Central as well as the Provincial Governments along with the reconstruction of the entire system of education. You are also aware that a certain report was put forward by the Central Advisory Board of Education commonly known as the Sargent Report and there again this question was discussed at length and a very large number of recommendations were made from the University to the pre-primary stage. That report has been before the country and before the Provincial Government. As to how this matter actually arose, to the best of my knowledge the position is that last summer the Government of the U.P. or His Excellency the Governor appointed certain committees. One of them was called the University Education Reconstruction Committee and another was the Higher Secondary Education Committee and a third one was asked to deal with primary education. The University Committee met last summer. I was also a member of that committee. But as I made it plain at the last Senate meeting it was in my individual capacity that I was on the committee. It may be that because I happened to be Vice-Chancellor I was appointed to the committee, but I was appointed in my individual capacity. I was not asked to consult the Senate or any other University body before I attended that committee.

The University Educational Reconstruction Committee made certain recommendations and they were submitted to the Government, who placed them before a larger body which was called the U.P. Educational Reconstruction Committee. Unfortunately I could not be present at the deliberations of this Committee. I was told that they accepted the recommendations made by the University Educational Reconstruction Committee. I am not speaking of the committees on Higher Secondary Education or Primary Education. Since we are meeting as a University we are not concerned with these stages of education at least not directly. The University Educational Reconstruction Committee made a number of proposals. They also made a recommendation that the U.P. Universities ought to have a three years degree course, instead of the existing two years Intermediate and two years Degree course. That was one of their recommendations. It obviously involves a very great deal of expenditure on the reconstruction of the existing High Schools and on raising them to the standard of higher secondary schools. It also involved a great deal of additional cost on the Lucknow and Allahabad Universities which would have to expand their existing hostel and class accommodation.

I pointed out to that committee that the existing affiliated colleges of the Agra University should be compensated for a loss of revenue from the separation of the first year class and that some assurance should be given that the staffs, employed in teaching the First Year class, should not be thrown out of work and be deprived of their employment. The other University representatives endorsed my view on compensation to colleges having intermediate departments. It did not find unanimous support in the committee. If my memory is correct we did recommend that a certain amount of compensation should be paid to the colleges for the loss of revenue which they would suffer by the elimination of their first year class.

I understand that the larger body, the Educational Reconstruction Committee of the United Provinces, endorsed those views and I believe that His Excellency the Governor at that time accepted the recommendation. No steps have been taken to implement those recommendations, at any rate in the present financial year. As I said before, the recommendations involve a large amount of additional expenditure and that it is largely a matter of finance. It requires a very large sum of money before the scheme can be put into force. The most important point is this. The scheme is in my view entirely useless unless the High Schools are financed so adequately that they would be able to come up to the standards required of them for teaching class XI and in some ways approximate to the standards of the present Intermediate. In Delhi I had to put through the scheme while I was in charge of education of that province. I pointed out to the committee the very heavy cost which the Central Government had to provide in raising schools to our secondary standards. In that connection I also said that a guarantee was given to those teachers in colleges who might be thrown out of work and that Government undertook to find employment for them.

This is a resume of the actual position. The Local Government do not intend to implement the scheme in the present financial year. I do not know whether our National Government will do anything in the near future. Naturally the scheme will be considered de novo by them. At that time when the scheme was considered it was a section 93 province. Speaking individually I think that the scheme will probably be considered by them. What their reactions to the scheme are, or whether they are prepared to provide money for this purpose, these are matters of which I have no knowledge whatsoever. The question, therefore, arises whether there is any object in discussing this scheme at present when everything is in the melting pot and we are not aware as to what is going to happen. I promised to give you an opportunity to discuss this matter and I have kept my promise. It is for you to discuss it or not to discuss it.

Dr. Ishwari Prasad: Sir, you have said that the committee of which you were a distinguished member accepted the three years' degree course. What did this committee suggest in regard to M.A. and M.Sc. courses? Was it the wish of the committee that the two years' course should be retained for the M.A. and the M.Sc. courses? Then altogether a student who joins the University will have to study five years at the University in order to complete University education. What was the intention of the committee?

Vice-Chancellor: I will ask Prof. Sidhanta to explain this.

Dr. Ishwari Prasad: In the Saddler Commission's report the recommendation was quite clear that there should be a three years' degree course and the M.A. and M.Sc. will extend to two years in the case of pass men and in the case of honours men to one year. What was the decision of this committee?

Prof. Sidhanta: As you know very well this question has been before the public for at least one decade (A member: for two decades at least). In the 3rd Quinquennial Conference at Delhi they passed a very long resolution. Various bodies considered this matter and it finally culminated in the issuing of the Central Advisory Board's report which re-emphasized the principle of the three years' degree course. As pointed out by Dr. Ishwari Prasad, while the degree course would extend to three years it will not mean that the student will have to be at the University for a longer period, before taking his degree. The idea was that we will not have as many examinations as at present. Numerous defects have been pointed out from time to time in our examination system. There is a preponderance of public examinations here, which I do not suppose is the case in any other country. Keeping in view this prominence given to public examinations and realising that examinations are only a necessary evil, no one can justify examinations as a sure criterion to a student's merits. We are only making some effort to minimise this necessary evil. We have heard a lot about the substitution of public examinations by efficiency tests and various kinds of tests. But so far as I know, nothing has been suggested even by the expert examiners as definite substitute for public examinations. We can, however, reduce the evil. That is why these various bodies have proposed a change instead of having biennial examinations. Now, a student's academic career extends over 17 years—11 years at the High School, two years at the Intermediate and four years at the University. Once he starts on his career of public examinations he goes on having them every alternate year, that is, at the end of every two years. There is one at the end of Class X, another at the end of Class XII, one two years after that, then the LL.B. Previous, followed by the LL.B. Final, if he takes Law after B.A. One of the necessary results of the proposed change must be the elimination of at least one examination or two examinations.

Another of course would be the question of the medium of instruction which has already been adopted at the secondary stage and we hope it would be adopted at the University stage and it would lead to more intensive work within the period of study at the University. All these matters were discussed by the committees and in the Central Advisory Committee and now the resolution has been put before the Senate by the Vice-Chancellor. One of the points to be considered relates to the pre-university stage. Now there is a public examination at the end of Class X and another at the end of the two years' intermediate course. The proposal is to abolish the Intermediate and extend the High School course by one year. The two examinations will be replaced by one at the end of Class XI and then the first Degree examination is to be after three years at the college or university course. One of the main advantages of this will be that a student will have continuous training at the same institution without being made to change from one atmosphere to another. As at present from the High School he goes for two years to the Intermediate College, and from the Intermediate College he goes for two years to the Degree College. If he comes to a Degree College of the Agra University he can stay there for three years 50 per cent. of the students studying for the Degree classes in Agra do not belong to the same college. They belong to other colleges. If they belong to the same college they have not to change the atmosphere. It has been said that the University course is for four years. The University course is not for four years. Two years are under the High School and Intermediate Board. This Board can legislate in any way they like. They can draw up or change their syllabus in any way they like. The Bombay, Madras and Calcutta Universities may claim that their University course is for four years with an Intermediate Examination in between, but the Agra University cannot claim that.

The idea was that the public examination at the end of Class XI should be followed by three years at the University for a pass degree or honours degree and then it should be a two-year M.A. course after that. The standard of M.A. will be much higher than what it is at present. It is hoped that during the three years' degree course much more work will be done, and secondly, we hope that with the introduction of the mother tongue a good deal more of work can be done even in one year than was formerly done through the adoption of English as medium of instruction.

Dr. Ishwari Prasad: During the three years' degree course is there any provision for honours course?

Prof. Sidhanta: There is provision for honours course. Not only is there provision, but it was also suggested (inaudible).....

..... because the Universities were given the option of working it out. The honours men need not take their M.A. by examination. It was suggested that part of the M.A. work should be written thesis and part of it should be by examination, because honours men having done much more of intensive work they would be a long way ahead of others. The idea was that the period of M.A. should be reduced by one year in the case of honours men but not in the case of pass men, but it was not finally decided. It was not decided on because we felt that the honours men might be given this privilege of doing research work, doing some original work within these two years instead of leaving the University one year earlier. This at least will have to be worked out by the individual universities according to their means. The essential point that we wanted to press before the committee was the provision of more funds.

At the final meeting at which the Vice-Chancellor was unfortunately not present, the committee had to settle priorities. The first priority was Primary education and then the University three years' degree course. I am told not on official authority that while one of the two priorities was accepted, that is, compulsory primary education in selected districts, the university three years' degree course was not accepted at least as the first priority and that is why no money has been provided in this year's budget and the thing may not come up very soon need not remind you that the popular Government may also be committed to the three years' degree course; because their committee has recommended a three years' degree course. I have not the slightest doubt that very soon we shall hear more about it.

Dr. P. Basu: Sir, we have heard two very lucid statements made by you and Mr. Sidhanta. Now we may say that we are well in possession of the facts of the discussion which has gone on at top level. It appears that there are three more or less distinct questions which are involved in this proposition. Mr. Sidhanta's University is in the happy position of not being affected by the most important practical question, namely, that of finance. They are not going to lose class, but they would add one class to their University. The financial question is an important question as you, sir, pointed out in your speech. The second question which Mr. Sidhanta has pointed out very well is the academic question. I must say that he has probably mixed up two questions and created a little confusion at least in my mind, namely, the introduction of the mother tongue as medium of instruction and examination and the three years' B.A. course. I think these two questions should be separately considered. Even with the existing system that we have, the present examinations and the present classes, even then with the introduction of the mother tongue, it will considerably improve the efficiency of teaching as also the amount of knowledge which can be gained by the students. I would, therefore, like the house to keep these two points distinct while considering the question of the improvement of standards and courses of study if the B.A. course is going to be a three years' course. I have also some doubt whether in the existing arrangement the knowledge of boys in particular subjects will improve only by introducing a three years' B.A. course. Take, for example, a subject which is both an Intermediate subject now and a B.A. subject. I will take my own subject, Economics. Either it will have to be abolished from the new High School examination at the end of Class XI, and there will be only three years in the University within which the student will study Economics. If two more years for the subject are added in the High School surely the standard of knowledge in Economics at the end of three years' B.A. will improve. If, on the other hand, as is likely, Economics is dropped, as it is now dropped, as a High School subject, then the student will be reading in the B.A. Economics for three years instead of four years. I do not see how the standard of knowledge of the student will improve if he reads the subject for one year less.

It has been pointed out that there will be great advantage in having one examination less. I entirely agree that we have probably too many examinations in this country. But at the same time we should not forget that the basis on which all universities are founded, the standard for all the universities, is the University of London. That University even today has got something like the examinations as we are having in this country. It seems that the proposal which has been decided at higher quarters has been one of compromise. I call it a compromise because a little bit of this University and a little bit of other universities have been taken. I happen to have some knowledge of the discussions which take place in the Inter-University Board. I should not say anything against that Board particularly when you are the Chairman of that Board this year. (Laughter). At least this year the discussions of that body are bound to be very efficient. But from my past experience I should say that there discussions take place more or less in a haphazardly manner and academic questions are not exactly inter-related to the practical problems which may arise in any one particular university.

Vice-Chancellor: I may remind you that at the last meeting I was not present.

Dr. P. Basu: Of the last five years I have no experience, but before that for continuously seven years I was a member of that body. If the object is to reduce the number of examinations I have full sympathy with that. But I find that a little bit has been taken from the older British Universities where there is a three years' degree course and a little bit from the old London University where there is a two years' M.A. Examination. These two things do not go together. The real trouble from which we are suffering in this country is that we have the honours course in an Intermediate Examination. If there is a three-year honours course for the B.A. degree and if a boy takes a first class in the honours examination, but after two years when he takes the M.A. Examination he gets a third division and another boy takes B.A. in the pass course owing to some domestic difficulties as also for reasons of health, I am one of those who took my B.A. degree in the pass course but luck favoured me and I took the first division in the M.A.—are you going to treat a first division B.A. and a third division M.A. as superior to a pass course man with a first division in M.A.? It is the final degree which really counts. That is what stamps a man for the rest of his life, all his previous achievements count for two years only i.e., up to his next examination. If he is a first divisioner in High School that will be wiped out after the Intermediate. Similarly after three years of B.A. the Intermediate result would be valueless. Even though he has got to prove his merit in the final degree, it would be useless to have an honours degree at an Intermediate Examination. The B.A. in our present scheme is an Intermediate Examination if you want to retain the M.A. Examination. If you abolish the M.A. Examination, then the B.A. honours will be the final degree. Certainly have an honours course there. In the situation in which we are placed it will be more useful to have an honours degree for M.A. than to have an honours degree for the B.A.

Another point which I want to submit and which is the reason why our standards are not very high is that we begin specialization probably too early. Even three or four years before the High School, a boy has got a lot of choice before him. Probably that is meant to provide for various kinds of aptitudes. But we begin specialization very early and we never proceed with specialization far enough. There are five subjects in which the student is examined in the High School, four in the Intermediate and four in the B.A. I submit that is not the way in which to keep up the B.A. standard. There ought to be one primary subject for the B.A. Examination. That is the only way by which the standard can be raised. A student who takes an honours degree in a British University is particularly well up in that particular subject. But he has started with one subject with one or two allied subjects which are the foundation for the honours subject, whereas a student here has to read Mathematics, Sanskrit and History, entirely different subjects which are unconnected and which do not lead to any co-ordination. There will be very great improvement in our standards if we reduce the number of our subjects and co-ordinate our subjects in such a way that out of three years the student reads the allied subjects in the first year and for the rest two years he reads the special subject. It is by this means that it is possible to raise the standard of our Examination adequately. I submit that three years for B.A. will never improve our standards unless we are prepared to make these changes, namely, that there should be a reduction in the number of examinations and a drastic reduction in the number of subjects which are going to be studied.

I think, on the whole, I would like to say something in favour of the scheme which is being discussed. I should also say it is a confusion of ideas, the decision shows a confusion of ideas, rather the decision shows a compromise which may be a very good thing in life, but in academic matters, in matters of principle, it makes the final proposition a little out of shape. It is due to compromise that we have a three years' degree course followed by the M.A. Examination.

We should, therefore, make up our mind to abolish the B.A. honours examination if along with the B.A. honours examination we are going to have the M.A., or get rid of the whole Intermediate Examination and have two years' B.A. and two years' M.A., or have no B.A. honours and M.A. honours. Taking [one class from the present college to the school and adding the other class to the B.A. degree course is not sufficient to raise the standards of the examination.

So far as the introduction of the mother tongue is concerned, I am wholly in favour of its introduction as the medium of instruction; provided we have adequate books and make adequate preparation. These things we have not got at present. We have got to make a beginning at some time or other and I trust that in future books of adequate standard in mother tongue will develop. Unless we begin the reform, books of sufficient standard will never come up. What used to be the condition 300 or 400 years ago in Europe when they had to change from Latin to their mother tongue, is similar to our present condition. I am bold enough to face this tremendously difficult period when sufficient books will not be available in the mother tongue, but we shall have to carry on for some time in the hope that such books will come forward. But so far as the three years' course, particularly the honours course followed by another examination is concerned, it is an obsolete proposition and from the very discussions which have arisen in the university bodies and other higher quarters, it seems that we want to stick to the old scheme of the London University and yet incorporate the good things of Oxford and Cambridge. These two propositions are contradictory. I submit, therefore, that this house, if it wants to decide the question at once, should not accept this three years' honours course followed by M.A. Examination. If there should be a five years' course it should terminate in an M.A. Examination with honours in one subject. Also in the B.A. instead of four subjects there should be one subject with allied subjects with very elementary courses. These allied subjects should really help the study of the main subject. I regret that I am unable to support several of the proposals implied in the scheme under discussion although some others have my hearty support.

Mr. P. D. Gupta: I had the privilege of moving a certain resolution before the Senate in its November meeting that before any final decision on the proposed three years' degree course was taken by the U. P. Government, the Senate should have an opportunity of expressing its opinion. I do not know what the fate of the resolutions passed by this body usually is, but I take it that the wish of the Senate was conveyed, in the normal course, to the U. P. Government and to His Excellency the Chancellor. The Senate desired that before any definite decision on the question was arrived at, it should have an opportunity of expressing its opinion, not on something intangible and indefinite with which we are faced today, but on something which is definite and concrete. Professor Sidhanta to whose speech I listened with considerable attention and respect referred to the report of the Universities Enquiry Committee to which, sir, you also made a reference. I do not know whether that report is now a public document, or whether it has been published for public criticism or opinion. There is also, I take it, no definite Government resolution in regard to the introduction of the three years' degree course, embodying concrete and definite proposals. Therefore, there is nothing definite before us on which we can express an opinion. Before the Senate can express an opinion there must be some definite and concrete proposals on which its opinion is invited. I have never made a secret of my own opinion that I regard the three years' degree course as an unwise move in the present circumstances. I have a very strong apprehension that this three years' degree course will lead to the curtailment of facilities for higher education in this province and these facilities, as I made bold to point out in the last meeting of the Senate, are none too abundant even in the present situation. Moreover, this three years' degree course cannot be introduced as an independent scheme. It will gravely affect the future of High School and Intermediate education.

Prof. Sidhanta: One of the points urged was that the number of universities will be doubled. The numbers won't be curtailed. There is the question of funds. They will have to provide for double the number of students at the University.

Mr. P. D. Gupta: Coming events cast their shadows before. I speak subject to correction. But I was told the recommendations of the University, regarding the raising of certain Intermediate colleges to Degree standard have not been accepted. It is, therefore, evident that Government do not seem to be anxious to increase facilities for higher education in this province. (A member: You mean the past Government?)

Vice-Chancellor: Are you speaking of the present popular Government, or of the previous Government?

Mr. P. D. Gupta: I am speaking of the Government as represented by His Excellency the Chancellor in regard to this University.

Vice-Chancellor: But in the past?

Mr. P. D. Gupta : I do not know but I understand that the decision, in regard to the Chandausi, Dayalbagh and Azamgarh colleges, which was only recently communicated was adverse. Supposing we have one more year in the University, then it means one year taken from the Intermediate colleges. Unless the vast majority of High Schools are raised to the status of Higher Secondary Schools, that will mean the curtailment of facilities in the way of Secondary education. Prof. Sidhanta represents a University which is not influenced by consideration of finances. For the Colleges of the Agra University, however, this also is an important consideration. Judging from past experience, it is comparatively an easy matter for Government to accept modifications in regard to the system of education. But when it comes to the releasing of funds to make the scheme a success, the Government may not be as liberal as the success of the scheme demands.

There is another factor and that is this. Dr. Basu pointed out that if the B.A. course is to be an honours course, then the utility of that course will be lost unless that is the final examination. I take it that many of us are influenced by the examples of Oxford and Cambridge where there is an honours degree course. But unless I am very much mistaken the M.A. of Oxford and Cambridge is purely a formal matter which is obtained on the expiry of a certain period on the payment of a certain fee. There is no examination at all. But if our B.A. honours examination is to be an Intermediate Examination followed by M.A. Examination, I do not think any useful purpose will be served by having such an honours course. Those who are in favour of the three years degree course make a great point of the fact that there will be an honours degree. I submit that the honours degree is of no use unless it is a final degree in the University.

The present Government, as Prof. Sidhanta said, may also take kindly to this three years' degree course, because when the Congress was in office a few years back, a committee was appointed by that Government and that committee recommended a three years' degree course. It may be that that question may be revived again. I have not the slightest doubt that when that question comes before this body, this body will look at this question from the point of view of the future of the colleges, affiliated to the Agra University, from the point of view of finances, from the point of view of the effect that the scheme will have on the fate of these colleges, from the point of view of the efficiency of teaching, from the point of view of the total facilities available in this province for higher education and for secondary education. I have no doubt that it will take into account the academic standards also. I have yet to listen to a speech which may convince me that the academic standards will be improved by a three years' degree course. It is possible that in the interval between now and the next meeting of the Senate, Government may publish some definite proposals on the matter. And if that happens, there should be some committee who may give due consideration to the proposals and formulate the point of view of the University thereon. The report of this committee may be put for consideration before the Senate at its next meeting.

I would, therefore, suggest that this Senate may appoint a committee consisting of about a dozen people including the Deans of Faculties. This committee may consider the question in all its bearings, it may call for relevant data and records and papers and put forward a considered view after weighing the pros and cons of the whole scheme and submit its report to the Senate at the next meeting. When I moved a resolution at the last Senate meeting I had an apprehension which has not been justified by later events that this scheme would come into effect either from 1946 or 1947. Now 1946 is out of question. Therefore, if the Senate considers this scheme finally in November nothing would be lost. I would, therefore, suggest that the whole question be referred to a committee consisting of members of this body.

Vice-Chancellor: What would be the exact terms of reference?

Mr. P. D. Gupta: This committee may consider the whole question of the introduction of the three years' degree course.

Vice-Chancellor: I would prefer you to write down the terms of reference.

Mr. P. D. Gupta: I am only making a suggestion.

Vice-Chancellor: Why not put your suggestion in writing.

Mr. Krishna Rao: I would like to say a few words on this resolution.

Mr. Beri: On a point of order. There is no resolution before the house.

Mr. Krishna Rao: The arguments so far advanced against proposed degree course are mainly one of finance and secondly, that the academic standards will not be very much improved by the introduction of a three years' degree course. Another point which has been refuted by Prof. Sidhanta is the fear that there will not be many student seeking admission into colleges and that facilities for higher education will not be available. Further, even supposing it is a real fear, that facilities for higher education will not be available, I ask whether it is worth while to afford facilities for a higher education which has been condemned as utterly useless, this three years' degree course has been considered a necessity for any reform of higher education in this country. Therefore, I ask, are facilities necessary for such higher education which has been condemned?

Then, as regards finance, if the Government says you must have a three years' degree course, they will find the necessary funds. Why must you be afraid of a change? We are victims of a panic which seems to be spreading everywhere. It is quite possible that some very big colleges in the U. P. area, where there are hundreds of Intermediate students, will be affected financially; but the popular Government can be entrusted to look after these private colleges. It will not act in a dictatorial manner. We are paying too much attention to the purely academic aspect of education. One point has not been mooted at all. And that is about the contribution of the universities to the cultural and intellectual life of the country. In a New India, the India of our dreams, which will be a worth while country for all of us to live in, this University cannot content itself with merely conducting examinations. It must plan its courses so that the University graduates will not only contribute to the academic life, but play an important part in uplifting this country by a contribution to its cultural and intellectual life. A very eminent body like the Central Board of Education, on which many great educationists were represented, said that a three years' degree course is one of the means to that end. Probably hereafter when we have a three years' degree course and reorganise High School Education on the lines suggested by the Sargent Report, we will not have graduates as clerks. For all ordinary purposes of clerkships we will have youths who graduate from schools which will be self-sufficient in themselves. This question has been thoroughly threshed out as Dr. Basu and Prof. Sidhanta have pointed during the last 20 years, and the suggested change has been found to be the best under the existing circumstances by very eminent educationists of this country. If for a few trivial reasons and very narrow interests in our minds, we say we don't want this reform, such reactionary resolutions will not stop the progress of this country. Whatever advantages you may argue will accrue by a rejection of the three years' degree course, if this scheme is good in itself, it will have its day. It is much better, therefore, for this Senate which is composed of experienced and discriminating educationists to give the scheme which has been considered good, its due value and vote for it.

Vice-Chancellor: Mr. Gupta, are you ready with your resolution? I would like to have something definite before us.

Mr. P. D. Gupta: I want five more minutes.

Mr. S. Pal: Without questioning the motives of either those who have supported or of those who have opposed the three years' degree course, I feel we have all been actuated by a desire to raise the standard of University education. Many of us feel that this desire of raising the standard cannot be achieved unless we have a three years' degree course. But surely a three years' degree course by itself cannot work a miracle. The defect in our University education is not a separate defect which can be separately remedied, but must be treated in the context of our whole educational organization, if not also of something still wider. Our University education is vitally connected with our secondary education, and unless we have a secondary educational system of a character, type and standard which will enable students to find entrance to the services, to business and to the technical and medical colleges in the country, the present indiscriminate rush to the universities will continue. Unless we can have students who are by capacity and inclination fitted for education at the universities, we cannot raise the standard by the mere introduction of a three years' degree course. So unless we have undertaken an improvement in our secondary system of education and unless we can view University education in the context I have spoken of, I think we shall not be moving in the right direction. Therefore, it seems to me that the problem must be viewed as a whole, and the question of a three years' degree course should be taken up after we have had before us the concrete schemes for the re-organisation of our secondary education.

Mr. B. P. Beri: We are grateful to you, Mr. Vice-Chancellor, for giving us an opportunity of expressing our opinion on such an important matter as the proposed three years' degree course. But the manner in which we are discussing it is rather unsatisfactory. It is like trying a suit without framing issues with inevitable digressions. Much has been said for and against this scheme. But I submit that in order to consider any question properly we must precisely know the scope of the question. It is, therefore, usually better that a question is discussed in the form of a resolution. Mr. Gupta may, therefore, table his resolution, enabling us to consider it precisely.

There is one thing more which seems to have escaped the attention of my learned friends and it is this. This three years' degree course. Whatever may be its merits from the educationists' point of view, has not been judged in its relation to students and more particularly to their parents. This, I am afraid, shows a certain amount of self-complacency when we discuss a scheme altogether divorced from its substance. It is all very good that the Government would finance this scheme or may finance that, but ultimately the burden of every educational scheme would rest on the parents. This aspect of the question has not been noticed so far. Inflicting 11 years course in Secondary education would be adding one more year of bother to the already overburdened shoulders of the middle-class parents. Has this aspect been considered by our educationists? So far as this House is concerned, I regret, it appears no one has paid any consideration to this. It is an important consideration so far as the bulk of our population is concerned, at the average income of the people in our country is said to be only seven pice per day. I, therefore, endorse the view which has been put forward by my friend, Mr. P. D. Gupta, that a committee be formed to consider this question in its entirety.

Mr. P. D. Gupta: My resolution reads thus. "Resolved that a committee of 11 members of the Senate be appointed to consider the whole question of reviewing the duration of the University courses and the nature and stages of public examinations (with particular reference to the proposed three years' degree course). The Committee may obtain relevant papers and reports from the Government and submit its report and definite recommendations for the consideration of the Senate at its next meeting."

The resolution was duly seconded by a member.

Canon Sully: So far as I have been able to understand, the consideration of this proposal for a three years' University course has always been closely related to the reform of Secondary education. Mr. Sidhanta in his otherwise very comprehensive survey did not allude, so far as I remember, to one argument which comes in the forefront, that is to say, the need of greater diversification at the latter part of the secondary course. A student with an aptitude for technical studies should have a chance of diverting to an appropriate course and a student who should go into teacher training should do so at the end of the secondary stage. I should like to suggest that in this resolution the committee should consider the University courses in relation to any reorganisation of Secondary education. We are bound to get considerable advantage at the university stage if our secondary system is improved. My own inclination is in favour of this proposed re-organisation at the University stage and it has been based very much more on the hope that we should get better students coming on, on the whole, from the secondary institutions than on any anticipation that there would be very much improved standards simply because of the three years' degree course.

This seems to be a very important point. If our committee are tied by the terms of reference to pay no attention to any proposals for improving the pre-University courses, that would be very unfortunate.

Mr. P. D. Gupta: I entirely agree with what Canon Sully has said. I would modify my resolution thus:

"Resolved that a committee of 11 members of the Senate be appointed to consider the whole question of reviewing the duration of University courses and the nature and stages of the various public examinations with particular reference to the proposal for a three-year degree course and the reorganisation of Secondary education. The committee may obtain relevant papers and reports from Government and submit its report and definite recommendations for consideration at the next meeting of the Senate. I am making it fairly comprehensive to enable the committee to take up the question of courses also."

Mr. Ishwari Prasad: I rise to oppose the institution of the three years' degree course in the present circumstances of the University. I do so with a full sense of responsibility. I am a little doubtful about the value of the resolution which my esteemed friend, Mr. P. D. Gupta, has placed before this House; because we are not aware of the proposals that the committee appointed by Government has made, or is going finally to make. You will remember, Mr. Vice-Chancellor, that at the meeting of the Court of the Allahabad University in November last we asked Mr. Wall what the recommendations of the committee were. He chose to be silent. Prof. Sidhanta has fortunately been more communicative. He has told us more about this committee, but Mr. Wall was unable to say anything about it, nor has the Vice-Chancellor who was a member of the committee thrown much light. In the absence of the concrete proposals that this committee has made I do not think we can enter into the merits of this question.

When the time comes and the proposals of the Government are published or circulated for opinion, that will be the time for the Senate to look into these proposals minutely. In any case nothing will be lost by considering the broad questions that are also before the public. One of the broad questions that has been before the public for a long time is the institution of the three years' degree course in the universities in U. P. Now, sir, the question is a very old one. I shall briefly give the Senate the history of this question. Many of us in India are anxious and have been anxious to reproduce the conditions that prevail in English Universities entirely unmindful of the peculiar conditions that exist in this country.

Now, sir, you will remember that the Saddler Commission, which was appointed for the reform of the University of Calcutta, suggested a three-year course. That advice was never acted upon by that University. It suggested that the B. A. course should extend for three years and after the B. A. for the B. A. honours men, the M. A. and M. Sc. will extend for one year and for pass men the B. A. and the M. Sc. will extend for two years. In 1934, the Inter Universities Board suggested the institution of a three-year degree course. In 1939, a conference of Indian Universities accepted this proposal and in 1945 the Central Advisory Board of Education endorsed the institution of the three years' degree course in Indian Universities and suggested that a uniform plan should be followed throughout the country. Now the chief reason why these public bodies recommended the institution of the three years' degree course was this, that the Secondary education had not produced its real effect. The Intermediate education had proved a failure and in order to give reality to University education, in order to improve the standards, in order to make graduates more worthy of their degree it was necessary that such a course should be instituted.

Now, there are two aspects of the question. One is the idealistic aspect and the other is the realistic aspect of the matter. One aspect of the matter is academic. Academically it is very good to have a three-year degree course; it is very good to reproduce as many Oxfords and Cambridges as possible in this country. The country will gain, the standards of academic life will improve, but the ideal has to be related to circumstances. It is circumstances that give to every principle its distinguishing colour and discriminating effect. Every principle whether it is political or academic has to be viewed in relation to the circumstances that exist in our country. The Senate is the supreme governing body of this University. It is not concerned with making courses; it is not concerned with laying down syllabuses; it is concerned with the policy which the University should follow and it is its right and duty to examine the financial complications of the changes we introduce in our University courses. It is for the committee of the Senate to express its opinion on these questions.

Now, sir, what will be the advantage if the scheme is adopted? Prof. Sidhanta was good enough to tell us that it is not merely the committee appointed by the bureaucratic Government that made this recommendation. The Narendradeo Committee appointed by the Congress Government in 1937 also made a similar recommendation. It is necessary that the proposal should be seriously discussed. That it comes from a popular Government is no reason why it is absolutely correct. You are the Senate of this University and it is for you to discuss the pros and cons of the matter and to place before the Government the view of this University and to make clear to them whether the proposed change would be useful or not. Now, sir, there are certain very important reasons why this scheme should be opposed. I have also made myself clear that academically and idealistically the scheme is very good. But the scheme has to be viewed in relation to the entire educational policy of the Government. On the whole, it has to be viewed in relation to the re-organization of the entire education of the country.

What Government has done everybody knows. Professor Sidhanta will remember that the Universities of Allahabad and Lucknow were established as teaching Universities and the attitude of the Government has been very niggardly towards them. I remember several years ago when Dr. Ganganatha Jha was Vice-Chancellor of Allahabad University and Sir Malcolm Hailey presided over the Convocation, he said that the Government's attitude had been very niggardly towards the re-organised Universities. He was a fearless man. He said Government had embarked upon this experiment of establishing teaching Universities with open eyes, but it had not provided enough money for the proper management of these Universities. What has been the result? Research has suffered. The University library has become out of date. There is a small grant of Rs. 10,000. There are deficiencies in other respects. Our tutorial classes are growing and from 800 in the University in 1923 the numbers have grown to 2,900 now and yet the grant has not very substantially increased. Such is the state of affairs in the University of Allahabad. You were present in November last when our budget was discussed and you will remember how member after member rose in order to protest against the niggardliness of Government and it was said that Government had not provided sufficient money for carrying on the work of the University. The Vice-Chancellor was asked that the demand should be pressed upon the Government. I do not know what the state of Lucknow University is. Probably that University is more fortunate. Government has not been very generous in giving assistance to these Universities. If this scheme was adopted—I was looking into Sargent's Report and I find that the calculation he made is that 672 lakhs would be required for University education. How are 672 lakhs to be found? I do not know. You have suggested that in the budget of this year no provision is made for a thing of this kind.

These are the various aspects of the matter that have to be gone into by an academic body like the Senate. It is up to you to express your opinion fearlessly as the supreme governing body of the University. I am not frightened by the fact that a popular Government suggests these schemes. It is my duty as a member of the Senate to express what I feel in regard to this matter. Now our colleges will be seriously affected by this change. In the first place, who will benefit by this change? Is the student really going to benefit by this change? Unless the staff is increased, unless more money is placed at the disposal of the colleges, the standard of teaching is not going to improve. Nothing has been done so far to improve the standard of teaching in the Universities. I do not see how the students who will stay at the University for three years will improve the standard of teaching at the University. On the contrary, as one who has taught for many years I feel that my own University will be adversely affected by the change. It seems to me unless there is proper library and laboratory equipment and ample facilities are provided by the Government, the students who will come in increasingly large numbers will drag down those also who are already at the University. This is going to be one result of the change. Therefore, it is very necessary that we must make sure that our equipment is going to develop pari passu with the introduction of this reform. Who is going to give this guarantee I do not know.

My first objection, therefore, is that the students who will join the University or colleges under this scheme will not benefit. They will not improve the standard of the University. The second thing is that the Intermediate Colleges of this University will be adversely affected. Some part of the staff will go out of employment and I am not so optimistic as to think that the Government will provide employment for all those who are discharged by the colleges. Then there is another important matter. The Intermediate Colleges have been founded by public-spirited men. Public money has been spent over them. They have established libraries. They have built up gradually with infinite industry laboratories. What is going to happen to all these things? All this material, all this equipment will be wasted. It seems to me, therefore, that the Intermediate Colleges in this province will be seriously affected by this change.

Then there is another point. In this country what we need is more and more diffusion of education. The effort should be quantitative as well as qualitative. What we want is to increase the number of students who will join our Universities. Every member of this House knows that in India the need is to fling the portals of the University wide open to all classes of students.

My friend, Mr. Bhatnagar, Principal of the D. A. V. College, Cawnpore—I do not know whether the article which appeared was inspired or whether somebody else said it—said that there were 2,000 students in his college. I congratulate him on the numbers of his college. But the sting was in the last part of the observation that the grants of the other colleges that did not possess 2,000 students should be cut down. That difficulty is bound to arise. How are you going to provide for the increased number of students. The need is to have more and more colleges in this province. The number of institutions must increase, otherwise you will create a sense of frustration in the minds of students. At present in a city like Cawnpore I am told a student applies to the various colleges, he knocks about from door to door. The difficulty of hostel accommodation is still more unsatisfactory. What is going to happen if you are going to introduce this scheme. It seems to me, as Canon Sully said, the need is for diversification, the need is for more and more diffusion of education. This scheme will put obstacles in the way of many students who now join the University. There is another reason. This scheme will adversely affect the middle class parent. There are many middle class parents who cannot afford to educate their boys at the Universities of Allahabad and Lucknow. The average expenditure of a student in the Allahabad University is Rs. 80. I do not know how many parents of the middle classes are able to afford this amount for two or three of their children studying at the University. When Indian gentlemen talk about reproducing the conditions of Oxford and Cambridge here they ought to bear in mind the economic conditions of this country. A student at Oxford costs Rs. 400 a month. How many Indian parents are there who can afford to spend Rs. 400 on their sons at Oxford. The number, I suppose, is very small. My point, therefore, is that this change, if introduced, will very adversely affect the interests of the middle class parent. The middle class parent will find it more and more difficult to send his sons to the University.

Prof. Sidhanta: The plan was for double the number of students. Double the number was not only for teaching Universities, but at least there should be 50 degree colleges. The older Intermediate Colleges would become degree colleges.

Dr. Ishwari Prasad: They have not said so. In summing up it seems to me that the scheme, as I have already said, is more idealistic than realistic. What we need in this country is to strengthen the base. Higher education may very well wait for five or ten years. Nothing will be lost. The need is to strengthen Primary education and Secondary education and in the meantime let us discuss the whole question. What is important is that the educational policy of the Government should be integrated to the needs of the community and that is a thing which educationists generally lose sight of. What is important, therefore, is to view the entire educational reorganisation as a complete whole and then to decide what steps you are going to take in order to improve the standards of this University. The standards of the University will not improve merely by transferring students of one class to the University. That hope will not be realised. I, therefore, oppose the institution of the three-year degree course in this University in the present circumstances. Although it is very difficult to make up our minds to-day; because the details of the Government scheme are not before us, I think that by the time this committee functions the proposals of the Government will be before us and we shall be better able in November next to express our opinion in regard to these matters which are highly controversial.

The Vice-Chancellor then read Mr. P. D. Gupta's resolution and put it to the house.

Dr. Ishwari Prasad: It will be in the interests of the University if some people who are not teachers engaged in teaching or associated with the University like Dr. Asthana or Dr. Brijendra Swarup are associated with this committee.

A Member: Dr. Brijendra Swarup is a Dean.

Khan Bahadur Syed Raza Husain: With the background of Dr. Ishwari Prasad's eloquent speech I should occupy a very small space on the canvas. I have to say that I am certainly in favour of this proposal of Mr. P. D. Gupta. I would like to point out the peculiar constitutional position of the University and hope that the committee which is going to be formed will take that position into consideration. Constituted as we are, we have half of the University in the U. P. territorially and from the point of view of the number of colleges too, we have perhaps a bigger half in the states of the Indian princes who claim to be sovereign bodies. That the present position so far, whenever we have talked about the authorities and the Governments, we have considered only three authorities as far as I could deduce from the speeches—the personal authority of the Chancellor the popular authority of the U.P. Government plus the opinion of the educational adviser to the Government of India. Whenever we talked of authorities or Governments nowhere we really had in our mind, we never envisaged the territory of the princes though the grants come from half the number of such colleges as are in Indian states.

Hence if the Senate is inclined to give its blessing to the committee, I am certainly in favour of it. But I may at the same time point out that though I don't really mean to make light of the importance of the academic side of the reorganisation or the improvement which is going to be made, but if this University would find itself in the situation in which it is at present, that is, the Governor personally or the popular Ministry has not been good enough even to address this University with regard to the changes that are to be made and that we some how or other instinctively begin to feel that we are going to be bye-passed and, therefore, the best thing for us would be perhaps to address something which may save us from that situation, if we are in that situation in U. P. and if the popular Government, as has been said by some of the members, is inclined to take a very drastic measure in opposition to the views of the University and the situation crystallises to an unhappy position the Indian Princes might well feel that we are a divided house in this University the process of disintegration which has begun will really develop further, as referred to by you in the beginning of your own speech. The Princes will think twice whether they should be with us. We stand buffeted by opinion of personal and popular Governments on one side and to suffer from the imbecility with which we have to submit to them.

Dr. Hafiz Syed: Will you permit me to offer some suggestions in regard to the resolution you have in hand? If a body of 11 members are going to consider the proposition whether we should have a three years' course or not; then I would suggest that this body of 11 members must be a representative one. It must safeguard various interests. I suggest that those names that have been proposed should not be imposed upon us, but we should be left free to suggest other names, also, names which most of us consider right and suitable. My second suggestion is this. Prof. Sidhanta, in the course of his speech, has pointed that there should be M.A. degree course also in addition to three years' degree course. If I understand him a right, I should like to point out that we have been a bad imitator of everything western. One of the things which we have imitated is education. We have organised our education on the model of the London University. Now we are out to imitate Oxford and Cambridge. There they have a three years course. Supposing we accept this model, we shall, then be driven to the necessity of eliminating M.A. Examination. If we have a three years' B.A. degree course, then there should be no separate M.A. Examination. In Oxford and Cambridge a graduate automatically, in two or three years, becomes an M.A. by paying some fees. Another very important question which we have to consider in connection with the three years' course is the medium of instruction. I am afraid, that none of the learned members of this Senate have thrown enough light on this topic. One of the speakers Dr. Basu, was wise enough to say that these are two different questions. But I am inclined to think that one is dependent on the other. To suggest now at this time that the medium of instruction should be Indian languages is not wrong but perfectly right because the problem of the medium of instruction is in the air. Not only one or two but several other Universities have actually accepted this proposal and only the other day the Patna University had adopted it. This body of 11 members may very kindly consider the practical difficulties that may crop up in introducing Indian languages as medium of instruction in the University of Agra. Personally I know it for a fact that we have not a sufficient number of text-books for our use. In the Osmania University the first thing that they did was to wait for 10 or 12 years in getting standard books written before they started teaching through the medium of Urdu in that University. Are you prepared in the same way to get your text-books ready

Vice-Chancellor: The first suggestion is that the committee should consist of 11 members. Is there agreement that the number should be 15?

Mr. Beri seconded the proposal that it should consist of 15 members and it was agreed to by a show of hands.

Dr. Ishwari Prasad: Dr. Hafiz Syed has suggested that the names proposed should be such as will represent all interests, not merely academic interests.

It was then agreed to that the committee should consist of the Vice-Chancellor, the Deans of the six Faculties, Canon Sully, Prof. Sidhanta, Dr. L. P. Mathur, Mr. P. D. Gupta, Dr. Ishwari Prasad, Khan Bahadur Syed Raza Husain, Mr. K. P. Bhatnagar and Mr. B. P. Beri. This committee was then declared elected.

Dr. Ishwari Prasad: The report of this committee will be circulated to the members before the Senate meets in November. The report may be sent.

Vice-Chancellor: In that case I would have to call a meeting of the committee in August.

The meeting then terminated at 12-45 p.m.

60. With reference to Board of Inspection resolution No. 36 of November 20, 1945, the Board could not consider the question of the affiliation of Narain Inter. Collège, Shikohabad, for the B.A. and B.Sc. standards as the report of the Inspectors had not been received. 	The colleges shall be requested (a) in making new appointments to the staff to attach importance to research and (b) in making promotion to higher grade to attach importance to research work done since joining the staff.	That the University should recommend to colleges to give their teachers all facilities for research, including leave on full pay or part pay.	...	The University should encourage co-operation among colleges for post graduate and research work and in stations where there are two or more affiliated colleges, local committees, with the Vice-Chancellor as the Chairman should be formed to explore possibility of research basis and co-operative post-graduate teaching on a voluntary basis.

| 2. St. John's College, Agra. (15) | 1
"Consideration of research work is certainly one of the factors to be taken into account in making appointments and promotions; but at the same time, it has to be remembered that a man may be an excellent teacher of a subject without possessing the special gifts necessary for original research work." | 2
This college has already been working on this plan, a number of members of our staff having been granted study leave and financial assistance for further study both in India and overseas. | 3
... | 4
Co-operation in post-graduate studies has for long been in practice between Agra College and St. John's and we are always ready to welcome any extension of such co-operation as it becomes possible. It may be advisable to have a special committee to consider any proposals which the Provincial Grants Committee may have to make, but our experience seems to show that no special committee is necessary to secure co-operation locally." |
| 3. Maharaja's College, Jaipur. (9) | 1
"We fully agree with the proposals contained in your letter under reference and would like to point out that we are already carrying them out." | 2

It may please be noted that we would not like to comment on the second part of No. 3 which does not apply to us. |
| 4. Meerut College, Meerut. (37) | 1
"I have the honour to inform you that the communication referred to in your letter under reference was put at the last meeting of the College Committee held on 3rd December, 1945 and that the communication was duly noted." | 2

5. Christian College, Indore. (44)	The Local Board agreed to the recommendation in principle but was of opinion that, as the University is now organised, teaching ability was of greater importance than research experience, and should therefore be given the greater importance. The Local Board was of opinion however, that the University should take steps to encourage greater research, and so to make it possible for individual colleges to attach greater importance to research qualifications in making their appointments. "This might be done by establishing a few research fellowships, open only to the teaching staffs of affiliated colleges for research work not leading to a degree, by establishing a few small bursaries to help teachers who want to do research work in their own colleges but cannot get entirely free from regular class work, by establishing a series of publications to be known as the Agra University Research studies, in which the results of research work might be published; or by any other means."

12. Christ Church College, Cawn- pore. (28)	"The Governing Body are of the opinion that this is very desirable, but in view of the fact that the college finds it so difficult to get men with adequate qualifications of ordinary nature, they feel that it is impracticable for the college to insist that all new appointments to the staff should be men with experience in research. Furthermore, the type of work which is done for the greater part of the students of this college is also of an elementary nature, so that a person with real ability and interest in research would quickly find that B. A. teaching was more of hindrance to him than any thing else. "Every effort will be made to fulfil the College spirit of the resolutions mentioned in the Jodhpur, above quoted letter. I heartily agree with (10) the recommendations."
